

[Club Activities     ]

Almost all high schools in America have their own brass band club. The members of the band are busy all year around. This is because they are expected to go to many sport events with cheerleaders, to march and play music at lots of parades or festivals, and to participate in various contests or concerts. Usually each band has its own uniform. Generally speaking, Americans tend to put more emphasis on marching bands and they enjoy music with their neighbors in their community.
